His MAJESTY's Most Gracious SPEECH to both HOUSES of Parliament, on Thursday, Oct. 17, 1745.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

THE open and unnatural Rebellion, which has broke out, and is still continuing in Scotland, has obliged me to call you together sooner than I intended; and I shall lay nothing before you at present, but what immediately relates to our Security at Home, reserving all other Considerations to a farther Opportunity. So wicked and daring an Attempt, in favour of a Popish Pretender to my Crown headed by his Eldest Son, carried on by Numbers of traiterous and desperate Persons within the Kingdom, and encouraged by my Enemies Abroad, requires the immediate Advice and Assistance of my Parliament to suppress and extinguish it. The Duty and Affection to me, and my Government, and the vigilant and zealous Care for the Safety of the Nation, which have with so much Unanimity been shewn by my faithful Subjects, give me the firmest Assurance, that you are met together with a Spirit becoming a Time of common Danger, and with such Vigour, as will end in the Confusion of all those, who have engaged in, or fomented this Rebellion.

I have, throughout the whole Course of my Reign, made the Laws of the Land the Rule of my Government, and the Preservation of the Constitution, in Church and State, and the Rights of my People, the main End and Aim of all my Actions. It is therefore the more astonishing, that any of my Protestant Subjects, who have known and enjoyed the Benefits resulting from thence, and have heard of the imminent Dangers these Kingdoms were wonderfully delivered from, by the happy Revolution, should by any Arts and Management be deluded into Measures, that must, at once, destroy their Religion and Liberties, introduce Popery and Arbitrary Power, and subject them to a Foreign Yoke.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I rely on your Affection to me, and your Care and Concern for our common Safety, to grant me such a Supply, as may enable me entirely to extinguish this Rebellion, effectually to discourage any Foreign Power from assisting the Rebels, and to secure the Peace of the Kingdom; for which Purpose I will order the proper Estimates to be laid before you. Amongst the many ill Consequences of this wicked Attempt, the extraordinary Burthen, which it must bring upon my faithful Subjects, very sensibly affects me. But let those answer for it, whose Treason has occasion'd it, and my People be convinced what they owe to those Disturbers of our Peace, who are endeavouring to make this Kingdom a Scene of Blood and Confusion.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

The many evident Proofs this Parliament has given, of their Duty, Fidelity, and Affection to me, and of their steady Adherence to the present happy Establishment, and the true Interest of their Country, make me repose myself entirely on the Zeal and Vigour of your Proceedings and Resolutions. I am confident you will act like Men, who consider that every Thing dear and valuable to them is attacked; and I question not, but, by the Blessing of God, we shall, in a short Time, see this Rebellion end, not only in restoring the Tranquility of my Government, but in procuring greater Strength to that excellent Constitution which was design'd to subvert. The Maxims of this Constitution shall ever be the Rules of my Conduct. The Interest of me, and my People, is always the same, and inseparable. In this Common Interest let us unite; and all those, who heartily and vigorously exert themselves in this just and rational Cause, may always depend on my Protection and Favour.

The LORDS ADDRESS, presented to His Majesty, on Friday the 18th.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament assembled, beg Leave to return your Majesty our humble Thanks, for your most gracious Speech from the Throne.

As we felt the utmost Concern upon the breaking out of the unnatural Rebellion, which is still carrying on in Scotland, so our Joy on your Majesty's safe and happy Return into this Kingdom, agreeable to the ardent Wishes of your People, is proportionably augmented. We want Words to express the just Indignation and Abhorrence which fill our Breasts at so wicked, traiterous, and desperate an Attempt, in favour of a Popish Pretender to your Crown, whose groundless Claim we have unalienably abjur'd, and whose Principles and Designs we do, from the bottom of our Hearts, detest. And we beg Leave to assure your Majesty, that this rash and presumptuous Enterprize shall have no other Effect upon our minds, but to excite in us such a Spirit of Resolution and Unanimity, in this critical Conjuncture, as by the divine Assistance, may not only suppress this Rebellion, but confound and extinguish for ever, all future Hopes of the Pretender, and his Adherents.

The many evident Proofs of true Loyalty and Affection to your Majesty, and Zeal for your Government, which have been already shewn by your faithful Subjects, with an Union and Chearfulness never known before, unless at the happy Revolution, wrought by our great Deliverer, King William the Third, are clear Demonstrations, that this Nation is determined to preserve the Structure built upon that glorious Foundation. Vain indeed must be the Expectations of those, who can imagine we would part with it. As your Majesty has been pleased graciously to accept, and approve these Beginnings, we beseech you to look upon them as an Earnest of the united Zeal and Vigour of your Parliament, in the Cause of your Majesty, and their Country.

It is with Hearts full of the sincerest Gratitude, that we acknowledge your Majesty's paternal Regard for the Laws of the Land, our Constitution in Church and State, and the Rights of your People: And it is with the deepest Conviction that we declare to your Majesty, and the whole World, that the Continuance of these Blessings does, under God, entirely depend on your Majesty's undoubted Title to the Crown of these Realms, the Support of your Throne, and the Preservation of the Protestant Succession in your Royal House. Whoever can entertain a Thought of exchanging those just Rules of Government, bounded by the Rules and Maxims of this free Constitution, for the Exercise of Tyranny, and Arbitrary Power, learned in the most despotick Courts of Europe; and of parting with the purest Religion in the World, for the Superstition and persecuting Spirit of Popery, must be the most abandon'd of Mankind.

Warmed with these moving Sentiments, and unshaken in these Principles, we give your Majesty the strongest Assurances, That, in Defence of your sacred Person, and of all those invaluable Interests, which we have already described, we are steadfastly resolved to unite, and to hazard our Estates and our Lives; That, from this Resolution we will never depart; but will heartily and zealously concur in all such Measures, as may most effectually conduce to extinguish this Rebellion; to deter any foreign Power from pretending to support it; to restore the Tranquility of your Majesty's Government; and to add Strength to that excellent Constitution, which this flagitious Attempt is intended to subvert.

May

May the Divine Providence guard and protect your Majesty's precious Life; give Success to your Councils and Arms, against all your Enemies; and Stability to your Throne.

His MAJESTY's Most Gracious ANSWER.

My Lords,

I Return you my hearty Thanks for the affectionate, and warm Assurances of Duty and Loyalty, which you have unanimously given me in this Address. Your Concern for the Preservation of our Excellent Constitution in Church and State, is as agreeable to me, as the Zeal you express for me, and my Government. I entirely rely upon both; and doubt not, but, by the Blessing of God, and your Assistance, this unnatural Rebellion will be defeated; and the Peace and Tranquility of my Kingdoms restored.

[The common Address will be in our next.]

South-Carolina.

By His Excellency JAMES GLEN, Esq; Captain General, Governor, and Commander in Chief, in and over His Majesty's said Province.

A Proclamation

WHEREAS by Accounts from different Parts of Europe, the State of Affairs there, affords a melancholly Prospect of all true Lovers of Liberty; AND WHEREAS by Accounts from Great-Britain, several of his Majesty's Subjects, regardless of the Happiness of their Country, and forgetting their Duty and Allegiance to their Sovereign, have taken Advantage of those troublesome Times, to raise a most unnatural Rebellion, against the best of Princes, in Favour of a Popish Pretender.

AND WHEREAS in other Respects, the Hand of God lies heavy upon us; And as Afflictions arise not out of the Dust, it is the Duty of all Ranks, to humble themselves before God, and to offer up their fervent Prayers to the Divine Majesty, graciously to avert the severe Judgments that threaten us.

I HAVE therefore resolved, by the Advice of His Majesty's Honourable Council, that a Day of publick and General Fasting, Humiliation, and Prayer be observed throughout this Province; and Friday the Seventh Day of February next, is hereby appointed for that Purpose.

Given under my Hand and the Great Seal of this His Majesty's said Province, this Seventeenth Day of January, 1745, and in the Nineteenth Year of His Majesty's Reign.

JAMES GLEN.

By His Excellency's Command,
JOHN CHAMPNEYS, Dep. Sec.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

CHARLES-TOWN, January 18.

The General Assembly of this Province have met according to Adjournment, and are sitting for the Dispatch of Publick Business.

Capt. Smyter in a Ship from London for this Port, and a Brigt. for Cape-Fear, were taken on the 3d of December last, by Two French Privateers, in Sight of Capt. Liddel, who arrived here from London last Tuesday.—Our Advices by Capt. Liddel, of the Pretender's Eldest Son, are, That he was marching into Lancashire.

Mr Thomas Tucker, in his Passage from Edisto to this Port, last Week met with a Dutch Sloop going to Fredericia, taken by Capt. John Brown in a Rhode Island Privateer, she was valued at 15,000 Pieces of Eight, and trading on the Spanish Coast. Capt. Brown had also taken and sent into Jamaica a Spanish Register-Ship from Old Spain for La Vera Cruz, valued by Invoice at 54,000 Pieces of Eight.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in London to his Friend here, dated November 18 1745.

"— YOU must know, that Scotland is at present the Seat of War, and all Communication stopp'd up by the Pretender's eldest Son, who is at the Head of an Army of, some say, 10,000 Men, others 16, others 20,000.—I shall here relate to you their whole Procedure, as far I am inform'd. The Pretender's eldest Son landed at Gamron of Lochealls the latter End of August, and brought with him the Marquis of Tullibardine, one Lord Sempill, two Colonels McDonalds (Irishmen) Relations of the Earl of A—m in Ireland, one English Knight, old Lochiall, Drummond Younger of Bowhadie, John Stuart who was a Quarter-master in the Greys, one McDonald a Jesuit, one Kelly a famous Man, and a few more whose Names I don't know; 16 small Pieces of Cannon, 1000 Stand of Arms, and 30,000 l. in Money. Joined him since his Landing, Gamron Younger of Lochiall, and his Men, McDonald of Capuch, McDonald of Kinlochmoidart, McDonald Younger of Lochgeary, (he was a Lieut. in Lord London's Regiment, deserted in his Regimentals, and 16 Men along with him) Murray of Broughton, Lord Ogilvie Son to the Earl of Airly, Lord George Murray Brother to the Duke of Athol, Duke of Perth, Oliphant of Gask, Mercer of Aldie, Lord Nairn, Graham of Glengyle, alias McGregar, Stuart of Ballechallin, and Stuart of Glentuckie, (but both these left him with their Men the next Day, not thinking his Scheme good) Arnprior also join'd the Army, at Perth, as did young Glengarcay, and some others —— The Rebels have been very successful ever since they began, having met with no Opposition, and use their Prisoners very well. They took two additional Companies for the Royal Scots, after a brave Defence; the Officers were released upon their Parole not to fight them for a Twelve month: They have also taken 30 of the Scots Fusiliers, who were upon the Roads.—General Cope who went to the Highlands in pursuit of the Rebels, came up with them at Corriarick, which is a strait Pass on the Road to Inverness, where he could not attack them by Reason of their advantageous Situation, and so marched to Inverness. The Rebels in the mean Time came to Perth, cutting down all the Bridges behind them; and Transports were sent to Aberdeen to bring about General Cope and his Army, consisting of about 2500 Men. General Blakeney commands in Stirling, and has put the Castle in so good Order that they are not afraid there; he has with him a Regiment of Dragoons and two Companies of Foot, and hourly expects the Dutch Troops over. The Pretender's Son, upon Advice that Cope was to land in the Firth, march'd from Perth the beginning of September, came by Drummond Castle where he dined, marched to Dunblain and Down, where they lay one Night, then crossed the Forth about 6 Miles above Stirling, where they expected a Visit from them; Gardner's Dragoons went out to reconnoitre them, but found them too strong to be engaged, and thereupon made the best of their Way to Falkirk and Linlithgow. The Rebels made a Feint as if they were going towards Glasgow, but suddenly returned, and immediately went the Rout with Gardner's Dragoons, Gardner being afraid that they might attack him in the Night, went directly to Edinburgh. The Highlanders lay next Night at Kosbiston. By this Time, the Town of Edinburgh was alarmed, and they were afraid of a Visit from them. Gardner's and Hamilton's Dragoons went to Corstorphan, to reconnoitre the Highland Army, and the City sent out their Guards and Train'd Bands to cover the Dragoons, but upon seeing their Number, the Dragoons, &c made the best of their Way towards Dunbar, to join General Cope, upon his Landing. Upon this the City called a Council, to consult what was to be done, and in the Time there was a Messenger from the Pretender's Son, demanding the Delivery of the Town, otherwise they would take it by Force. The Council found that the Town was not tenable, and as the Forces had left it, immediately sent most of their Arms and Stores up to the Castle; the Bank and most of of the Treasure of the Town being sent there before. About 3 in the Morning on the 19th of Sept. they enter'd the City, had the Pretender proclaimed King, and Charles his Eldest Son as Regent of Scotland. Most of the well affected People left the Town, and none but your Nonjurors remained in it, whose Clergy have there as much at their Devotion as the Pope has yet. On the 20th they marched from Edinburgh, hearing that General Cope was landed at Dunbar, and that Night the Two Armies came in Sight of each other. The Highland Army lay that Night in and about Tranent; after Dark, they lighted their Fires, and some Time after, they, as a Blind to Cope, put them all out again, which made Cope imagine they had retreated, but to his great Surprize, about five in the Morning found himself quite surrounded; they attacked him with great Fury, at the first Fire Gardner's and Hamilton's Dragoons fled; Our Foot behaved very well, who were in the Center. The Dragoons being on the Right and Left who after the Fire of our Foot (they having all young Horses) could never rally again, upon which Col. Gardner dismounted, took a Pike in his Hand, and headed the Foot, he received a Shot in his Shoulder, a Cut in his Forehead, and as he was engaged with one of the Highland Officers a Highlander came behind him, and cut him in the Neck with a Lahaber Axe which finished him; The Battle was over in Ten Minutes: We had killed upon the Spot, about 300, and 600 wounded and taken Prisoners. Cope got off in a small Boat from Preston-Pans, immediately sent off for Surgeons to Edinburgh to come and take Care of the wounded, and ordered them to be carried to the Infirmary. The Highlanders were 6000, and General Cope 3000 strong. The Battle was fought between Preston and Tranent. The Highland Army returned to Edinburgh flush'd with Victory, and cut off all Communication from the Town with the Castle, but the Castle soon obliged them to open it, threatning otherwise to lay the Town in Ashes; they have knock'd down several Houses.—By our last Accounts from Scotland the Highland Army is encamped near Dalkeith, where they are intrenching themselves, having Two Wasters on their Right and Left, where they design to wait for our Army under Field-Marshal Wade, who, it is said, will be at Berwick as this Night, with 26,000 Men. The Highlanders are hourly expecting a Reinforcement from France; they have got a Supply of Arms, Ammunition and Money landed at Montrose, and as they can't cross above Stirling, the Marquis of Tullibarn is gone to Athol, where he was the 23d Current at the Head of 800 Men and Artillery; they have made a Trench on the back of the River, expecting a Visit from the Happy Janet Man of War. They plunder wherever they go ——"
